

17th May 2008.

(Prophecy by Sarah during Graham Cooke weekend.)

I feel really blessed to be here & it's the first time I've been here in this room. When I walked in, it really impacted me so strongly that God was in this place. He started to talk to me straight away.

He said "Look at this room. You've come into the circle of God." Then He said "What else?" I looked & saw the flags & immediately had a picture of a square room with a huge big round table in it. People came into this room & they were cowering in the corner a little bit & all of a sudden it became apparent that there was a strong presence of God in the room. Every person came & they sat round the table & they knew exactly where to sit. There was no arguing, no I want to sit there, everyone just peacefully moved to their spot on the table. As they did, they claimed a banner & it was like a flag. I can't tell you what was on the flag, all I know is, as those people got up to leave their place with their banner their banner became a huge big flash of light & they just disappeared. The minute I looked at the table again there was more people sat at the table. It was instantly being replenished.

God said to me "This is a God table, this is like my Kingdom. You come & you sit in your rightful place, you understand where you fit. But this is how I expect government to work & this is how I expect authority to work. In the circle there is unity & you are all equal. Those who took the banner out were no more important. The first ones that went were no more important than the second ones & the third & the table was replenished over & over.

I felt God really saying that this place, this circle is going to expand & you take authority as a body. He's given you a mandate of authority, here first in this room & that will move out. It's about these streets, then it's about the wider community, & then it's about the town & then you carry it forth & it has a ripple effect - ever expanding circles.

This is not new, this is established here already so don't think that this is way in the future - this is right now. I'm sitting you round the table right now, so claim it & it's yours to move into.
